Wind of change

The 16th edition of the INM Summer School
August 14th to 17th, 2019
at Concordia University in Montreal

THE CIVIC ENGAGEMENT SCHOOL

The Summer School is a four-day event that develops civic skills by experimenting with various forms of citizen participation. It's also an opportunity to meet various actors. In addition to other motivated participants, you'll meet and exchange ideas with a number of public figures involved in politics, media, science and arts. It's a festive and dynamic moment, and it's all yours!

A WIND OF CHANGE IS BLOWING THROUGH THE SUMMER SCHOOL

The consequences of climate change are being felt, populism, reinforced by fake news, is blowing through our democratic societies, social inequalities are deepening. It is urgent we act now. To protect our environment. To improve our ability to live together. To strengthen our democracy.

A wind of change is rising. Youths are actively changing the world. They are mobilizing in the streets, within political bodies or organizations, through arts, through entrepreneurship, in the media. We are realizing just how much collective actions represent a powerful lever for social change. Youth has the power to create change.

This fall, Canadians will also be asked to vote in the next federal election. Young people will represent a significant portion of the electorate. Let us be heard!

The Summer School is an opportunity to be carried away by this wind of change. Young people aged 15 to 35, take this opportunity to develop action proposals to increase social justice and have a lasting impact on Quebec society and the world.

THE PROFILES

The sessions by profile will give you an opportunity to experience a collective approach of civic engagement.
